

I, AAW 2010 school activities

In 2010, IFAW had an overwhelming response to Animal Action Week (AAW) in China. Over 230 schools - ranging from kindergarten to high schools and university green groups - from 16 provinces and municipalities participated in AAW activities. With the expansion of the AAW teachers' training last year to include more teachers, 33 new schools joined in AAW.

The schools sent in compositions and drawings first screened at the school level to enter the AAW national competition. Teachers also sent in photos demonstrating the success of AAW being implemented in their schools.

- Around 250,000 students watched the AAW video and studied the educational material.

Students from Primary School affiliated with Gansu Agricultural University participating in AAW activities.

Students from Qingfeng Primary School watch AAW video

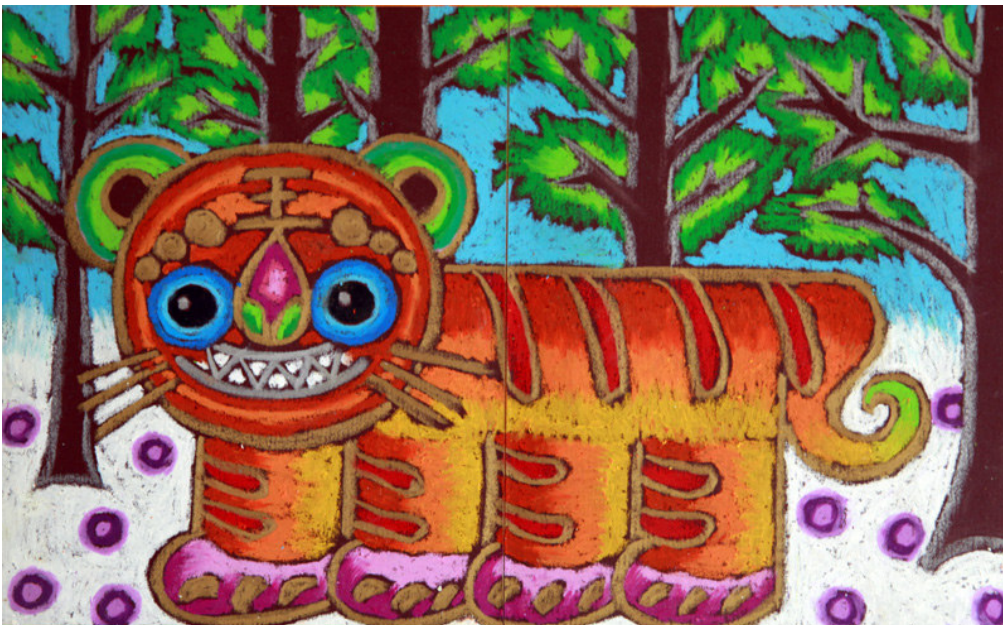

Tiger book marks made by students from Tianjin Hexi Central Primary School

“Save the Wild Tiger” posters made by students from Xiamen No.1 Middle school

- IFAW received 5,800 compositions & 4,700 drawings to compete in the AAW National Competition after first being screened at the school level. A judging committee will go through all the compositions & drawings to select winners. Winning entries will then be collected and printed as a special issue of AAW 2010 winning works.

“I love tiger” by Li Tiannan(6 year old) from Wuhan Daxinglu Kindergarten

"Desperation" by Chen Shipeng (8 year old) from Wuhan Changqing Primary School

"Mother's Love" by Zhuang Hanlin (13 years old) from Xiamen Shuangshi Middle School

“Lonely Tiger” by Ma Ziwei from Liaoning Experimental Middle School of Liaohe Oil Field

“Tears” by Guo Xinran(12 years old) from Tianjin Hedong Experimental Middle School

- 18 dramas were received to enter AAW 2nd Children' drama competition

“Tigers learning skills” by Wuhan Daxinglu Kindergarten

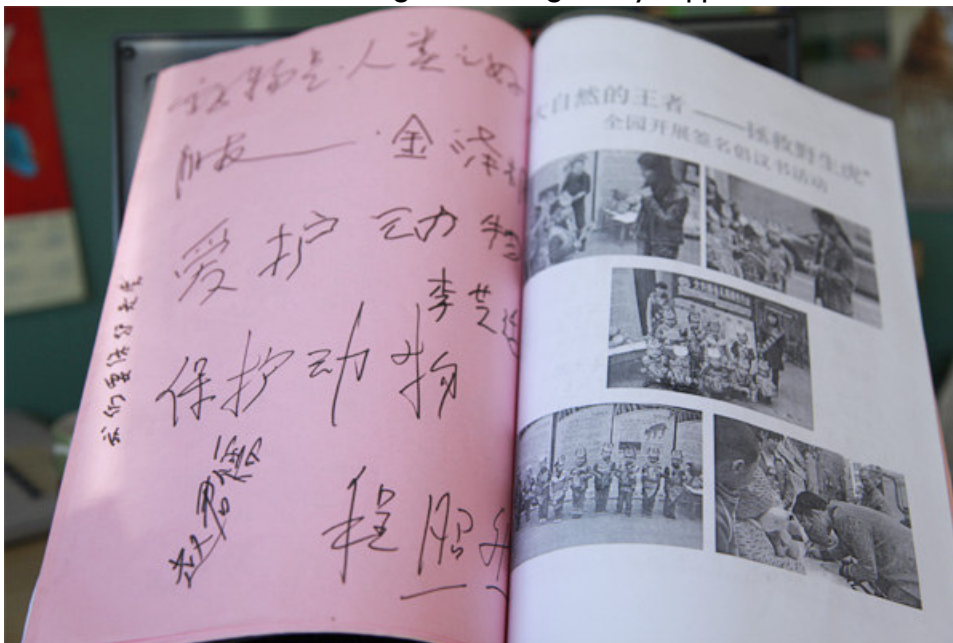

“Hope” by Xiamen Shuangshi Middle School

“Happy Melody” by The 4th Middle School of Simao, Yunnan

- Around 35,000 students signed on “Tiger Day” application letter

2, AAW teachers' training at Xiamen

IFAW held the 9th teachers' training at Xiamen from Jan 20th – 22nd, 2011. This training is especially designed for kindergarten teachers and 29 teachers attended the training.

We invited a kindergarten principal from Wuhan who gave a vivid presentation on how they carried out AAW for years and what they have learned and gained from AAW, particularly the school activities focused on drawing and children' drama.

